THE JEWISH NEW YEAR.

A Holiday That is Observed by Hebrews Everywhere.

The Hebrew New Year began at sunset yesterday, making the commencement of the year 5652 from the creation of the world and ushering in the great holy days of the Hebrew calendar. The first and second days are devoted to the observance, which is of a solemn character.

All Hebrew places of business were closed last evening, and to-day will be celebrated in the synagogue, in which a marked observance is the blowing of the shofar, or ram's horn. To-day being the Sabbath, this is omitted, but to-morrow the instrument will be sounded during the services. All the rabbis will preach on the first day and some on both days. New Year's greetings will be exchanged, cards and presents are given to relatives and friends.

Children Enjoy

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be constipated or bilious the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Take your carpet rags to U. D. Fricke's carpet store and have them made into a first-class carpet. 9-23-91

A New Wrinkle.

The latest scheme for raising money by lodges and other organizations is the basket party. The young ladies bring to the meeting small baskets filled with fruit or other edibles, which are to be eaten by the donor and purchaser. These baskets are auctioned off and fair prices realized. Purchasers are plenty, as beside the contents, the basket is good for future use.

Always go to Coslett's, South Main street, for your prime oysters. 8-22-91

Still Growing.

R. H. Morgan, regalia maker of town, to-day shipped a large order for regalia which he had received from a Council of the J. O. U. A. M. located at Alexandria, Indiana. He is also filling an order for 100 handsome double badges, and 100 parade caps for the St. John (Polish) society, of Mahanoy City, and five dozen order for regalia for a Council of the J. O. U. A. M. at Hadley, Mercer county, Pa. And yet there are some societies in our town who have an idea that they cannot get such goods made in town as cheap and good as elsewhere in the state. 10-3-91

Guaranteed Cure.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, upon this condition. If you are afflicted with a cough, cold or any Lung, Throat or Chest trouble, and will use this remedy as directed, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We could not make this offer did we not know that Dr. King's New Discovery could be relied on. It never disappoints. Trial bottles free at O. H. Hagenbuch's drug store. Large size 50c. and $1.00.

REMINISCENCES.

RECALLED BY INCIDENTS AT POTTSVILLE ON THURSDAY.

REGOLLECTIONS OF YEARS AGO.

A Meeting After a Separation for Over Thirty Years—Many Grizzled Veterans are Treated to Surprises.

Thirty-one years ago the writer left Phil. Richards, now better known among the veteran soldiers as "Corporal Phil," doing duty as "devil" in the composing room of the Tamaqua Gazette. One year later I enlisted in the 96th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. On Thursday, during the unveiling of the soldiers' monument at Pottsville, I met Phil—just thirty-one years older than when I left him as a "devil" of the Gazette. It was a pleasant surprise to meet him after so many years and it was a still greater surprise for me to learn that he entered the army so soon after I enlisted, in '63, and, like myself, he was spared to share in the glorious ceremonies of Thursday. Phil is now a resident of Philadelphia and is working at his old trade—printing.

Capt. A. C. Huckey, known as "Baldy," or "Burnsides," was in the procession with the Veterans League. He was as lively and good looking as ever and had a cordial greeting for everyone. He, too, resides in Philadelphia and is employed in the U. S. Mint. He has a fine military record.

General Henry L. Cake, of Tamaqua was one of the observed of all observers. He was seated in an open wagon, in company with Colonel William A. Lessig, now of Denver, Colorado, and a dozen aged and crippled survivors of the 96th Regiment, P. V., which both Cake and Lessig at one time commanded as Colonel. General Cake is beginning to show signs of age, while Lessig seems to be growing young again.

General Cake went into the service as one of the First Defenders. At the organization of the 25th Regiment he was made Colonel. On the muster out of the 25th, after three months' service, he organized the famous 96th Regiment, which shared honors with the 48th as the best from Pennsylvania. He was again made Colonel and before his return home was made a Brevet Brigadier General. He was one of the bravest and kindest-hearted officers in the service. He served two terms in Congress after his return to Schuylkill.

Capt. J. H. Hoskins, of Shamokin, and formerly of Shenandoah, was conspicuous among the old veterans and was heartily greeted by the survivors of his command. He is perfectly at home when among them and tells many a good yarn. Capt. Hoskins commanded a company in the 48th Regiment and was a strict disciplinarian.

Colonel George G. Boyer, Department Commander of the G. A. R., was at the head of the Grand Army Post. He looked as young as he did 30 years ago. To Colonel Boyer the writer was indebted for his first promotion, although the relations existing at the time were comparatively those of strangers. The Colonel has an excellent record as a soldier and since the war he has held several important positions in the state. As Department Commander of the G. A. R. he is very popular.

Of Colonel Zach. Boyer, who also witnessed the monument ceremonies, much more can be said than space here will admit. He was Quartermaster of the 96th Regiment and, while he was such, I had an opportunity to become better acquainted with him than I had been previously. One day I failed to deliver to him some mail he expected. For a time his impressions made the air blue. I ventured to make a remark that caused him to charge upon me in double quick time, his boot getting too close to my coat tail for my comfort. But after that episode we became the best of friends.

I met a member of Allison Post, of Port Carbon, who traveled three thousand miles to see the monument unveiled and meet his old comrades. He is now a resident of the new state of Wyoming. A man who will travel such a distance for a reunion is made of patriotic stuff.

Frank Wenrich, at one time engaged in the butcher business in Mahanoy City, and Chief Burgess of the town once, when he was arrested on suspicion of being connected with the Wiggans' patch massacre, but very properly released after an exhaustive hearing, was at the unveiling and was awarded a First Defender medal. He is now a policeman in Philadelphia. He spent a few hours in town yesterday.

Three Shenandoahites received First Defender medals. They were Lawrence

Mangam, David Howard and James Hughes, and all feel proud of the distinction. "Jim" is better known because of his connection with the 7th Regiment, National Guards. He and "Dutch" Henry, of Shamokin, were "chums" and they were the life of headquarters. "Dutch" Henry was Colonel Caldwell's valet and "Jim" looked after Lieutenant Colonel Huntzinger. The Commissary was very kind to both Henry and "Jim" and recollections of his acts must be among their most pleasant thoughts. One day "Jim's" face was blackened by his son as he was lying under a tree and I shall never forget the merriment provoked by his arrival at headquarters. "Jim" was at a loss to account for the laughter until he saw the reflection of his countenance on the surface of a pool of water.

"Hello, comrade. I thought you were dead and buried long ago." Haven't seen you since the battle of Antietam. "Bless me, I thought you were under the sod at Gettysburg," were the exclamations heard on Pottsville's streets last Thursday. There were many genuine surprises.

Funny incidents were plentiful opposite the Pennay depot, where the old soldiers were fed. The eyes of one veteran from New Ringold opened as large as saucers when he saw the hard tack on the table. He picked up several pieces and put them in his pocket, saying "I must take them home to the old woman and children." Evidently he had not seen hard tack since his return from the army. He said he was better pleased to get them than he would have been if he received a twenty-dollar gold piece.

The bean soup was a treat for the "boys" and all sipped heartily. The salt, lame and broken-down forgot their ailments and appeared young again. There was an abundance and nothing is more pleasing to an old soldier than an old-time army meal.

At one of the restaurants a veteran of the 96th Regiment told of an interesting incident of the war, while enjoying a social glass: "It was after the seven days' fight," said he, "and we had just reached Harrison Landing and erected our dog, or shelter, tents on the soft, black soil of Virginia. It was raining and we were tired—peggod out, and out of spirits, with not a drop of liquor in the whole Army of the Potomac, of which but 80,000 strong remained out of a total of 100,000 when we first reached the Peninsula. General Cake, as kind-hearted a soldier as ever wore shoulder straps, commanded the 96th. He ordered his orderly to hitch up his horse in a light spring wagon and both drove to the banks of the James River, where Cake alighted and was rowed to the steamer S. R. Spalding. We had been passengers on the Spalding months before and Cake was well acquainted with the officers. There was but one barrel of whiskey on board and the only liquor on the river, and this Cake wanted, and he got it—after paying five hundred dollars for it. Dear soul, wasn't it? But it tasted good. Many requests for some of it were sent in by officers in high standing in the army, but Cake refused to let them have any of it until all his men were served. He was always looking after the comfort of his men." B. Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 2, 1891.

WHAT THE SCRIBES SEE AND HEAR

The Disgraceful Railway Arrangements of Thursday—Redress Will be Sought—The Disorderly Excursionists.

Last evening the committee that had charge of the excursion over the Pennsylvania railroad to Pottsville on Thursday was subjected to rounds of abuse on account of the special train failing to materialize as promised. Through the efforts of the committee over 500 people were induced to purchase tickets at the Pennsylvania depot.

The committee disclaims all responsibility for the absence of a special train and lays all the responsibility at the doors of the railway officials.

The affair has worked up a bitter feeling and members of the committee say that the proper railroad officials will have the case properly laid before them.

One of the committee said last night, "A meaner piece of business was never perpetrated upon the people of this town and it remains with the Lehigh and Pennsylvania companies to explain matters. The short route is a popular line to Pottsville, but people will take a longer route, rather than be subjected to the disgraceful treatment of last Thursday. I'll tell you another thing: the G. A. R. Post does not intend to let this matter die out and will stand by its committee of arrangements. The more the matter is ventilated the worse it looks. There was no blunder and misunderstanding. On the contrary, it looked like downright premeditated trickery. At Pottsville the special train promised at 5 p. m. was not forthcoming until after considerable argument, the officials at that end stating they were ignorant of the matter and did not think there would be a special. When the special was furnished, long after the scheduled time, the number of cars was so insufficient that the train was packed to suffocation. The Lehigh Valley Railroad officials are particularly censurable for the trouble. At first they stated that special trains were not necessary and followed it up by stealing the train engaged by the G. A. R., by allowing the National Guard to take possession of one of the cars and lock the doors, and filling the balance of the train at the Lehigh depot in town, thus leaving those who asked for the train in the cold at the Pennsylvania depot."

Reduction in Rates.

Commencing October 1st the Providence and Stonington Steamship Co. will reduce rates from New York to all points East on both its lines, by the Providence Line from pier 23 old No., N. R., at 6:00 p. m., and the Stonington Line from new pier 36 North River at 5:00 p. m. Rate to principal points will be the same on both lines, viz: Boston, $8.00; Providence, $2.25; Worcester, $2.25. A. M. OLSEB, S. P. A. 9-30-91

The Body Identified.

The body of the man found dead close to the Lehigh Valley tracks, near Shoemaker's station, yesterday morning, was identified as that of a Pole residing at Trenton, where the body was taken and prepared for burial. There is still some doubt about the cause of the man's death. The railway people say that injuries are of such a peculiar character that they do not appear to have been inflicted by a train.

Epworth League Anniversary.

The Epworth League will hold its anniversary on Monday evening, the 6th inst., at half past seven. Among other good things provided will be addresses on "Work to be Done" and "How to do it" by Revs. Thos. Harrison, of Mahanoy City, and W. S. Wheeler, of Tamaqua. All are invited.

A Test Case.

George F. Leitzel was before 'Squire Dangler last night, charged by Chief Burgess Lessig with violating the orders of Council emptying cess pools in the day time. Mr. Leitzel claimed that the work cannot be done as well in the night time, that it is difficult to get men to do the work at night, and that the emptying of cess pools during night time is more injurious to the health of the public than during the day. The case will go to court.
